GREGORY BOROWSKI BA BArch (Hons) Architect AIBC
MRAIC LEED AP. Principal: Merrick Architecture –
Borowski Sakumoto McIntyre Webb Ltd.

Gregory Borowski's architectural vision is steeped in his unusual life experience. He has taken design leadership on the Tate Downtown Tower and Howe Street Artist Studios, Kayak at Vancouver's Olympic Village (a LEED® Platinum community), the O2 boutique condominiums at Davie and Denman, the high-rise Laguna Parkside at the entrance to Stanley Park, as well as Elan, Symphony Place, and the Olympic Nordic Centre Daylodge. Greg has a passion to bring forward fresh perceptions to significant projects, and believes firmly in the role of a building in the broader context of the city and the natural environment. He is presently engaged in the 1157 Burrard Higher Building project, and the 1568 Alberni project in collaboration with Kengo Kuma & Associates (architects of the Tokyo Olympic Stadium). The Firm's work has been recognized with a variety of awards, including RAIC Outstanding Architectural Firm, the Commercial Building Award for Olympic Village Parcel 10 and for Symphony Place, and the Wood Works Champion award for the Whistler Olympic Park Daylodge.

ROBERT DREW Architect AIBC,
PUBLIC: Architecture + Communication

Robert is an architect and Principal with the Vancouver-based PUBLIC: Architecture + Communication. Established in 2008, PUBLIC is a multi-disciplinary design firm that excels at connecting the processes, techniques and thinking of different design disciplines – architecture, interiors, and communication. The firm is passionate about the impact of great design and its part of our makeup to know that getting from good to great integrated design can only be achieved through collaboration.

The creative acts of planning and design recognize the interconnectedness of ideas, energy, materials, systems, and people in the creation of buildings, landscapes, and communities. Applying this rigor to his own design process has afforded Robert a highly rewarding career to date and continues to inform the manner in which he explores and resolve design opportunities.

MICHAEL PATTERSON Landscape Architect, BCSLA,
CSLA, Principal: R. Kim Perry & Associates Inc.

Distinguishing himself as a talented conceptual designer and project manager, Michael has been the lead designer on many of P+A's award winning projects. As a member of P+A since 1994 and a Partner since 2004, Michael brings to the firm the benefit of an extensive academic background. He holds degrees in Landscape Architecture from UBC, Geology from Queens University, and a Diploma of Fine Art from the Emily Carr School of Art and Design. Sharing his considerable experience in the processes of Landscape Architecture and his exceptional knowledge of design, Michael provides patient mentorship and direction to the staff at P+A. Michael is both technical and creative which allows him to approach difficult projects with a focus on innovative and realistic solutions. His approach to design is hands-on, detail oriented and focused on quality outcomes.
