Ice Rink Settles on Cloverdale Site

Survey Municipal Council came up with a surprise site for the ice rink which is to be Surrey’s main Centennial project. It is to be on the Fairgrounds at Cloverdale.

The site was brought to the attention of the council by Alderman G. J. Jones, who is also chairman of the council’s recreation committee.

Councillors reconsidered the matter, and Mr. Jones asked that the question be brought in for a future meeting.

Mr. Jones said the reason for the change of venue was that, with the approach of the budget season, the council would have to face up to the cost of an ice rink at Cloverdale. He said that at Fairgrounds the cost would be $260,000, and that at Cloverdale it would be $125,000.

The council accepted this and instructed Mr. Jones to study the matter further and come in with a definite report at the next meeting.

Mr. Jones said that he had been assured by Mr. W. E. Gillis, Manager of the Fairgrounds, that the cost of the Centennial project would be $260,000, but that the council could cut this considerably if it were to be a Centennial project.

Surrey Municipal Council came up with a surprise site for the ice rink which is to be Surrey’s main Centennial project. It is to be on the Fairgrounds at Cloverdale.

The site was brought to the attention of the council by Alderman G. J. Jones, who is also chairman of the council’s recreation committee.

Councillors reconsidered the matter, and Mr. Jones asked that the question be brought in for a future meeting.

Mr. Jones said the reason for the change of venue was that, with the approach of the budget season, the council would have to face up to the cost of an ice rink at Cloverdale. He said that at Fairgrounds the cost would be $260,000, and that at Cloverdale it would be $125,000.

The council accepted this and instructed Mr. Jones to study the matter further and come in with a definite report at the next meeting.

Mr. Jones said that he had been assured by Mr. W. E. Gillis, Manager of the Fairgrounds, that the cost of the Centennial project would be $260,000, but that the council could cut this considerably if it were to be a Centennial project.

Deadline Looms for Fair Entries

Surrey Fair is going to have a Centennial theme. Entries are due by Oct. 30th and will be judged on Oct. 31st, November 1st and November 2nd.

The fair is being held to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the first fair in Surrey.

The fair will be held on the Fairgrounds at Cloverdale. The entry fee is $2 per class, with a maximum of 50 classes per entry.

Deadline Looms for Fair Entries

Surrey Fair is going to have a Centennial theme. Entries are due by Oct. 30th and will be judged on Oct. 31st, November 1st and November 2nd.

The fair is being held to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the first fair in Surrey.

The fair will be held on the Fairgrounds at Cloverdale. The entry fee is $2 per class, with a maximum of 50 classes per entry.

The deadline for Fair entries will close at 5 p.m. on May 1st.

The deadline for Fair entries will close at 5 p.m. on May 1st.

The deadline for Fair entries will close at 5 p.m. on May 1st.

The deadline for Fair entries will close at 5 p.m. on May 1st.

The deadline for Fair entries will close at 5 p.m. on May 1st.

The deadline for Fair entries will close at 5 p.m. on May 1st.

The deadline for Fair entries will close at 5 p.m. on May 1st.